

VIEWPOINT12 HOWARD DAVIES

Despite a growing number of calls for regulatory reform in response to recent crises, Howard Davies warns against hasty action by the government and regulators

THE EXPERTS COMMENT

- 46 FORMER IMF CHIEF Jacques de Larosière considers what action is needed to restore investor confidence after the subprime crisis, highlighting transparency as a pivotal issue
- 50 FORMER IMF CHIEF ECONOMIST Raghuram G Rajan digs deep into the roots of the subprime crisis and warns regulators that they have work to do
- 55 RETHINKING BASEL II Basel II may have to be rethought in the light of the potential risks raised by the recent financial crisis, says finance professor Harald Benink
- 72 INFOSYS CEO Kris Gopalakrishnan says technology can help banks to achieve a return on their investments in penetrating the unbanked populations of the world
- 78 ECONOMIC THEORY Tim Congdon suggests that academic monetary theory is becoming so irrelevant to the real world that academics have had nothing worthwhile to say about the subprime crisis to policy-makers
- 116 US TREASURY DEPUTY SECRETARY A considered policy response is needed to the rapid rise in the number and size of sovereign wealth funds, writes US Treasury deputy secretary Robert M Kimmitt
- 122 MICROSOFT FINANCIAL SERVICES MANAGING DIRECTOR David Vander tells Alan Duerden about the firm's innovations in the payments arena and its championing of mobile banking in the developed world and among the unbanked

SPECIAL FEATURES

- 34 CITIBANK CHAIRMAN Bill Rhodes, winner of The Banker's Lifetime Achievement Award, gives insights he has garnered in his 50-year career, covering Latin American debt, the fall of communism and the rise of protectionism, in an interview by Stephen Timewell
- 36 SUBPRIME CRISIS Some specialist hedge funds that anticipated and speculated on the credit crunch are now reaping the rewards. Silvia Pavoni reports on their strategies
- 40 RATING CDOS The market's understanding of risks embedded in the world of structured finance is poor, says Christian Stracke. He outlines improvements in five key areas of collateralised debt obligation ratings methodology that could help to rebuild confidence
- 44 LIQUIDITY RISK The Northern Rock debacle, among others, shows that banks' reluctance to be open about liquidity risk must change, argue David Vander and Bill Cuthbert
- 58 CREDIT SUISSE CEO Brady Dougan discusses how the bank weathered the subprime crisis, what underlies its newfound stability and plans for the coming year. Interview by Brian Caplen
- 62 BARCLAYS PRESIDENT Bob Diamond looks on the bright side of the bank's future after its effort to gain control of ABN AMRO failed. He tells Brian Caplen about Barclays' continuing growth path and its freedom to sort out the subprime fallout
- 64 FORTIS CEO Jean-Paul Votron, an old hand at transformation, talks to Geraldine Lambe about the remarkable collaborative effort his firm made with RBS and Santander to clinch the deal to takeover ABN AMRO's businesses
- 66 INDIAN CAPITAL MARKETS The financial sector has been a major beneficiary of India's dynamic growth trends but is not offering the range of products that firms need to raise capital and manage risk. Geraldine Lambe reports
- 74 CLIMATE CHANGE INITIATIVES What is green and appeals to the emotions of consumers and the financial logic of investors? A climate change initiative. Silvia Pavoni delves into the world of financial products and indices to find out what is on offer and how the market is progressing
- 82 TOP 10 BUSINESS BOOKS The Banker's editors list the 10 books that they believe have had the biggest impact on business and finance, and pick out the most famous quotes
- 112 INVESTMENT What kind of investments could give people the opportunity to make a 1000% return? Find out, as we list our top 10 bright ideas for potential limitless returns
- 124 TECHNOLOGY Chief information officers should be making their New Year's resolutions for the coming year with the aim of delivering value for money. Alan Duerden lists the five most important themes on the radar for 2008

66 UNDERCARRIAGE DEFECTS THREATEN TO SLOW PACE OF A RACING ECONOMY
More financial products are needed to keep up the pace of economic momentum in India